2015 a banner year for real estate

2015 proved to be not only the best year for real estate in the jurisdiction of the London and St. Thomas Association of REALTORS® since 2007, but also the second best year in the history of the Association overall. 9,366 area homes exchanged hands over the course of last year, just 59 units short of the 2007 total of 9,425 “The global financial meltdown that led to the collapse of the U.S. housing market back in 2008 negatively impacted Canadian markets as well,” says Carl Vandergoot, LSTAR’s 2015 President. “Eight long years later, we’re pretty much back on track.”

A total of 7,563 detached homes sold in 2015, up 9.2% over the previous year, while condo sales, at 1,803 were up 13%. Overall, sales were up 9.9% over 2014.

16,590 homes were listed in 2015, up a marginal 0.6%. Active Listings End of Period – or inventory – were down 14.0%. “We remain in a balanced market,” says Vandergoot, “but, given the relatively low supply, now would be a good time for anyone thinking about listing their home to get in the game.”

2015 was also a great year for real estate in St. Thomas, with sales totaling 830. Only 2007 was a better year for London’s Sister City and that by only 31 units. The average price of a home in St. Thomas in 2015 stands at $216,800 up 8.5%.
